Director General's Message

NPB is expected to play a lead role in transforming and reshaping police in Pakistan. In this regard, we have already accelerated the ongoing implementation of recommendations by the Police Reforms Committee formed by Supreme Court of Pakistan. Dedicated working groups have been constituted, with representatives of all relevant police organizations, to move forward on key areas of reforms such as updating criminal laws, urban policing, investigations, redressal of public complaints, internal accountability and ADR. Moreover, to institutionalize mandated functions and new initiatives, functional units with specific tasks have been established. These include the Strategic Police Planning Unit, Gender Responsive Policing Unit, Counter Organized Crime Unit, Cybercrime Coordination Unit, Police Reforms and Development Unit, Police Standardization Unit, Mass Awareness Unit, International Cooperation Unit, Protection of Minorities Unit, National Crime Database Unit, Criminal Justice and Legal Reforms Unit, and Community Policing Promotion Unit. NPB is also starting Police Executives Development Program to prepare police officers to perform their leadership role as heads of police organizations / units and in key areas of policing. The aim of all these initiatives is to strategically revamp and streamline the working of key components of National Police Bureau and to enable it to lead the process of police development, reform and modernization in Pakistan.

These initiatives reflect our commitment to genuinely improve the quality of policing in the country. They also demonstrate our determination and proactive approach to address the emerging issues and challenges confronting the law enforcement in the 21st Century. Our vision is to strengthen and further build on NPB's core mandate to bring substantive institutional transformation to promote quality, efficiency, competency, consistency, transparency, accountability, and integrity in the police.

In this backdrop, start of National Police Bulletin is a critical step in achievement of our above outlined vision and objectives. The Bulletin will provide us a medium for sharing best police practices, experts' insights, experiences and success stories which will, hopefully, contribute towards continued improvement of policing standards.

At the NPB, we believe in the significance of constructive feedback and inputs from all stakeholders. I, therefore, would welcome your suggestions and ideas to make the next edition of National Police Bulletin more substantive, informative, and inclusive.
